AT007K authorized-detacher operation - prepared reference

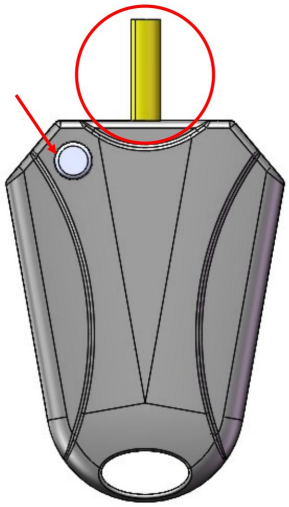

Applicability

AT007K detacher only, despite the generic AT007 heading inside the source. This is not the AT007 alarm tag.

AT007K authorized-detacher operation

AT007K is the dedicated detacher identified by the AT007 customer instructions. Its button releases the retractable magnetic section for use, and the section is pushed back flush with the housing for storage.

Keep the tool associated with the authorized checkout procedure for AT007. The source does not establish compatibility with unrelated magnetic-lock tags, so verify any other proposed use separately.

AT007K retractable magnetic release tool

Before handover

- Confirm the actual merchandise fit and delivered electronic-insert configuration.

- Verify the selected store gate/reader and the applicable checkout handling process.

Document information

This is an independently prepared English reference based on the reviewed technical material. It is not a manufacturer-issued original, does not replace the delivered hardware instructions and does not add a manufacturer warranty or certification.